

Digital resources:

Edutronic is the over-arching site that co-ordinates all our online activities, and expands on the ethical framework that underpins everything we do - from there you can access all the teachers' sites where all the resources and materials associated with their learning programmes are published.

<http://www.edutronic.net/>

Unlock Achievement is where you can find all the achievement badges that it is possible for students to unlock during their time in our department.

<http://achieve.community.edutronic.net/>

All the students in our department also have their own blogs where they have the option to publish all their work and work-in-progress:

<http://community.edutronic.net/home/student-journals/>

Sometimes we formalise our learning programmes and publish them for other schools to use - examples of this are our Grammar for Writing projects:

Dystopian Openings: <http://chris.edutronic.net/?project=dystopian-fiction-writing>

Satirical Inversions: <http://satire.edutronic.net>

I have my own professional journal where I explore the philosophies and pedagogies of our work and explore examples of the ideas in action.

<http://chris.edutronic.net/>

Edutronic in its entirety is a vast web of sites and materials. It contains about 30,000 entries (and counting) and is the pride of our department. We welcome all visitors and almost every page has a comment option should you ever wish to contribute to what you're reading.