

DATE:

SCENARIO (Should include a key challenge faced whilst making Project 1):

I was filming an interview on location with a member of our team for Project 1. It was a sunny afternoon and I hadn't anticipated so many people out walking their dogs and appearing constantly in the back of shot. It was an important part of my interview to create a sense of isolation and people randomly walking in the background was causing distraction. I knew the forecast was heavy rain the next day and that there was no time in my schedule to shoot the following week.

I only had a one-hour window to complete filming before I needed to return the equipment to college.

What action did I take?

-----
(Please cut here and retain below so your peers do not see the solution!)

INITIALS:      DATE:

SOLUTION: Change the angle of the interview to minimize chances of people walking in back of shot. Tell the runner to look out for members of the public approaching filming area and politely ask that they walk in a direction that doesn't obstruct the shot.

STATE TWO TRANSFERABLE SKILLS REQUIRED IN ORDER TO OVERCOME CHALLENGES FACED IN YOUR SCENARIO:

- 1) Communicating with members of the public.
- 2) Independent thinking.

List the job roles (not necessarily media industry roles/ sector) where the skills identified above are transferable to and explain why or how those skills might be relevant to such roles...

|  |
|--|
| Education - e.g. Open evenings where it is expected that staff talk to members of the public and provide information on college services/ courses on offer as well as learner support. Police - e.g. Crowd control and at public events where information is required to create a sense of order and calm. |
|--|